Fund manager comment

Equity markets were a bit stronger in August driven by renewed expectations of interest rate cuts in the US and initial hopes for a truce in Ukraine. On the other hand, political pressure on the FED intensified again undermining market confidence and driving long term interest rates higher. Political uncertainties in France played a role as well.

The market measured by the EuroStoxx50 index finished slightly positive with + 0.60 % compared with + 0.27 % for the fund. On the volatility side, the 100-days average remains above average for the index at 20.90 % compared to a much lower level of 12.43 % for the fund.

From a sectoral point of view, we noticed no clear positive overperformance but on the negative side of the balance we find few strong negative contributions with Technology, Media and Construction.

Political interference remains the main factor for markets. Economic visibility is undermined by this environment and gives little reason to expect a clearly positive market development in the short term. We continue to maintain a preference for a reduced exposure and the use of index puts to protect the portfolio.
